" I'm different, not less - Dr.Temple Grandin "

As a part of B.Ed curriculum, An interactive class on the paper Creating an Inclusive School was conducted at BSS B.Ed Training College Alathur. The insightful class was conducted by the representatives of The Kerala Blind Federation - KFB , for understanding and fostering an inclusive environment among the student teachers .

Inclusive Education is a learning approach that ensures all students, regardless of disabilities or differences, receive equal opportunities in mainstream education. It promotes accessibility, diversity, and participation by providing necessary support, adaptive teaching methods, and specialized resources to create an inclusive environment where every learner can thrive and succeed.

In this regard , the session started with a soulful prayer .Our resource persons were Murali Sir , faculty of GHSS Thenkurissi and Rajamani Sir, faculty of GHSS Nenmara were welcomed warmly in the initial stage of the session and was followed by the talk from resource persons . Both blind educators, have taken a significant step in promoting accessible education for visually impaired students. Their inclusive education program focuses on innovative teaching methods and specialized blind teaching aids that enhance the learning experience for students with visual disabilities. By introducing these tools, they aim to bridge the gap between traditional education and the needs of blind learners among children.

A key aspect of their initiative is the development and use of blind teaching aids and products designed to facilitate better comprehension. These include Braille stencil ,textbooks, tactile diagrams,games for basic learnings, screen-reading software, and audio-based learning materials like NVDA (Non Visual Desktop Access). Such tools allow visually impaired students to grasp complex subjects like mathematics, science, and language with greater ease. The program also encourages interactive learning, by enabling students to engage in classroom activities independently.

Apart from benefiting students, this program also empowers educators by providing them with specialized training in using effective laws for the protection of people with visual impairments. Mr.Murali and Mr.Rajamani actively conducted interactive session to train teacher trainees in inclusive teaching methodologies. This initiative not only promotes self-reliance among the teacher trainees but also fosters a more inclusive academic environment where all students, regardless of their abilities, can thrive.

By integrating blind teaching aids and products into the curriculum, the program ensures that visually impaired students receive the same quality of education as their sighted peers. Mr. Murali and Mr. Rajamani efforts serve as an inspiring model for educators and institutions striving for accessibility and inclusivity in education. Their work demonstrates that with the right tools and support, visually impaired individuals can excel both as students and as educators. After a great and insightful session by the resource persons, the program was successfully concluded with a vote of thanks from students on the behalf of the institution.
